REV. P. C. WRIGHT PREACHED ON HEAVEN. Grandest Thought Which Ever Came Into Human Mind.

At the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening the musical part of the service was of especial attractiveness for the good sized congregation, as the chorus choir led in the singing of Alchorus choir led in the singing of Alexander hymns, there was a well rendered offertory anthem, O Jesus Thou Art Standing (Speaks), by the church quartette, and a contraito singer from Boston, Miss Edith Castle, was heard in two melodious solo numbers. Her selections were in Thee, O Lord, Do I Put My Trust (Frey) and He Shall Feed His Flock from Handel's Messiah. In both she was heard with great appreciation, displaying a voice of conspicuous smoothness and pleasgreat appreciation, displaying a voice of conspicuous smoothness and pleasing quality, which she handled with effective enunciation and expression.

The sermon by the pastor, Rev. P. C. Wright, was upon the theme Heaven. He put the query as to why it is we so seldom talk about heaven, although heaven is a part of the gospel story. We seem to associate heaven with death, yet heaven isn't death and tears, for that life is full of joy and peace and song, its music not dirges but praises, its garb not black but white. Why have we come to associate heaven with that which fills us with sadness and woe? As to hell, we have eliminated that in this age, because we do not like the place.

Paul and James were better Christians in respect to heaven, for they lived with the light of heaven shining over them. What would it mean if the toil and care of this world could be borne constantly in the light of heaven? If the common job can be bathed constantly in the light of heaven. If the common job can be bathed constantly in the light of heaven? If the common job can be bathed constantly in the light of heaven? If the common job can be bathed constantly in the light of heaven, that would be a better job, a better task, with more of manhood and womanhood in it. The souls that have seen heaven have endured to the very limit of their lives and done it gladly. Heaven is the desire of all and the
